

Content and Context: Archiving Social Media for Future Use

Julie Swierczek

Beall, Jeffrey. 2008. "The Weakness of Full-Text Searching." The Journal of Academic Librarianship 34(5): 438-444.

Smith Rumsey, Abby. 2016. When We Are No More: How Digital Memory Is Shaping Our Future. New York: Bloomsbury Press.

The services below are not meant to represent everything currently available; they are just some of the options out there.

Social media capture systems (usually for compliance requirements)

- www.smarsh.com
- www.pagefreezer.com
- www.archivesocial.com

Download your data

- www.freemydata.co

Methods for harvesting data yourself:

- www.ifttt.com
- www.zapier.com
- <https://tags.hawksey.info/>
  - see also <https://tags.hawksey.info/tagsexplorer/>

Personal solution that may work for a small institution:

- <https://get.digi.me/>